Acknowledgments

First of all, it would be appropriate to express a special thought for my grandfather. I hope that, wherever you are, you are proud of me, and that you value my work.

I would like to thank my grandmother for her confidence, her support, and her limitless enthusiasm.

My parents deserve, more than anyone, my recognition and gratitude, for without them, nothing would have been possible.

I must equally express thanks to my family for its enthusiasm and support.

This book would never have been possible without the incomparable help of Billie Jean Collins and the unfailing enthusiasm of Evelyne Dehenin, to whom I dedicate this study.
