Acknowledgments

We would like to express our gratitude to the entire team of the Spanish Mission to Dra Abu el-Naga. Its conservation and restoration professionals deserve especial mention, since their hard and excellent work has proved essential in bringing the graffiti back to life. Most notably our thanks go to Nieves López Meijueiro, who carried out the cleaning of the walls of the tomb of Djehuty, and Miguel Ángel Navarro, responsible for the restoration of the tomb of Hery. The latter has also provided us with photographs of the graffiti on the north wall of the corridor of TT 12. We should also mention José (Pito) Latova, photographer of the mission in 2011–2018 and author of many of the images reproduced here, as well as the architect Juan Ivars, responsible for the plans, and Carmen Ruiz Sánchez de León for her assistance in the preparation of the figures that illustrate the contribution by Bosch-Puche and Ikram.

Di Cerbo and Jasnow are deeply grateful to Dr. José M. Galán for inviting them to work on these challenging, but fascinating demotic graffiti. He has been unfailingly enthusiastic and supportive of our study of the texts through the years. It has been a true pleasure to collaborate with him, Francisco Bosch-Puche, and Salima Ikram on this volume. Di Cerbo and Jasnow would also like to express their thanks to The Director of the Epigraphic Survey of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, Dr. Raymond Johnson. Chicago House is naturally an ideal base from which to conduct such a field project, and Dr. Johnson, for his part, has always been extremely supportive of our demotic research in Luxor. The Department of Near Eastern Studies of Johns Hopkins University provides an ideal environment in which to pursue scholarship of the type represented in this volume. Jasnow would like to acknowledge a debt of gratitude to his fellow Egyptologist, Dr. Betsy Bryan, and the other members of the department, who have long labored to maintain a tradition of mutual respect and collegiality. We thank Billie Jean Collins, Susanne Wilhelm, and James Spinti of Lockwood Press for the great care and efficiency with which they have prepared the manuscript for publication.
